Greetings from the Hull's,

Spring 2007 is on the horizon for us here in Alaska . With longer daylight hours and warming temperatures, the snow is beginning to melt. Before long we will see green grass and blooms on the trees.

In the mean time, we are continuing on the itineration trail. At 91% of our approved budget and a deadline drawing near, an excitement is growing around the state for Voice to the Village Ministries.

Exciting Opportunity!

Copper Basin Assembly of God in Glennallen are ready to begin a house church in Gulkana. With families already in place and the necessary money raised, they are eagerly waiting our arrival to help them with this. We will be using the internet to broadcast Pastor Clarence Catledges' services into this location. Just like Glennallen, others from around the state have been contacting us with locations they want to reach as well.

Isn't it wonderful how God times things so perfectly? Years ago when Voice to the Village was birthed, it was difficult for some to grasp the concept of using the internet to broadcast live video across the state, but now it is a vital part of our every day life in Alaskan villages.
